FREDERICKSBURG, Va., November 15.—An effort was made at Stafford Circuit Court yesterday by Mr. James E.
Armstrong, of Stafford, to indict Clerk C. A. Bryan for issuing a license recently to his son, Charles Armstrong, to marry.
Clerk Bryan, as previously published, issued the license upon the positive statement by the young man, who is only nineteen years old, seconded by an acquaintance who accompanied him, that there was no objection from any quarter to his marriage to Miss Hedlin, daughter of Mr. Joseph Hedlin. After the marriage the father of the young man protested, and the matter was carried before the grand jury, which, after deliberation, reported to the court not a true bill.

Congressman W. A. Jones, who was re-elected from this district last week, receiving a majority of about 4,500, is now serving his seventh term in the House of Representatives, and at the close of the term for which he has just been re-elected he will have a record of sixteen years in Congress. This gives Mr. Jones the distinction of having served in the office longer than any of his predecessors.
The Phillips homestead in this city, now the property of General D. D. Wheeler, United States army, retired, whose accomplished wife was Miss Nannie Phillips, has been so thoroughly improved and modernized that it is now one of the handsomest residences in Virginia. This splendid mansion was built and occupied by Dr. Mortimer, who was the physician to Mrs. Mary Washington, the mother of General George Washington, and when Washington came here after the surrender of Lord Cornwallis, Dr. Mortimer gave him and his suite a dinner party in this house, which was attended not only by the great commander-in-chief, but by Lafayette, Count Rochambeau, Steuben, Marshall, Monroe and others. From nowhere Virginia was there ever gathered around a dining table more men distinguished and celebrated in history than were present in this residence on that occasion.

Midshipman John J. McCracken, son of Captain T. McCracken, of this city, now of the battleship Ohio, is ill with typhoid fever, and has been sent to the Naval Hospital at Norfolk. His father, Captain McCracken, and his sister, Miss Eleanor McCracken, have gone to his bedside.

Messrs. M. J. Tyler and J. Frank Tim-berlake have established here an up-to-date paper box factory, known as the Eagle Paper Box Company, with Mr. M.
J. Tyler as manager. The plant is equipped with the latest improved machinery, and all kinds of paper boxes are manufactured.

Mr. Thomas Farmer, of Spotsylvania county, who was caught under a heavy tree while felling timber a few days ago, is now improving and will recover. At first it was thought that his injuries were very serious.

The Knights of Pythias of this city opened a bazaar at the Opera House here last night, to continue until next Saturday. In addition to articles for sale, an attractive programme is presented each night, and the bazaar is largely patronized.

Daniel Lucas, the old colored mail carrier, who has for years been a great respecter in this city, died yesterday at Falmouth, in Stafford county, twice a day, is dead. Daniel was one of the old-time darkeys, and was respected by white and colored. He was polite and honest, and will be missed by the people of Falmouth, where he resided.

Electric Car Conductor Swears Out Warrant Against Assaults.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
ALEXANDRIA, Va., Nov. 15.—Constable Mordca Hurst, living near this city, in Fairfax county, was given an examination in the Police Court this morning, Justice Caton presiding, on the charge of having in his possession a lot of merchandise stolen from railroad cars in this city. The defendant claimed that he was in the employ of railroad officials for the purpose of purchasing stolen goods to trace the thieves, but several witnesses testified that he had hired boys to rob cars. A lot of miscellaneous merchandise, enough to fill an ordinary room, was recovered from his premises.
Hurst was defended by Attorney Robinson Monroe and Howard Smith, and Commonwealth Attorney Brent represented the State. On motion of the latter, Justice Caton referred the case to the grand jury.

Warrants for the arrest of Joseph Harper, Robert Harper, his son, and Robert with intent to kill, have been placed in

MANY FLORAL TRIBUTES

Handsome Design and Touching Resolutions From Roa-

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., November 15.— Friends of those directly concerned say that among the changes that will come about with the inauguration of the Roosevelt administration after the 4th of March next, will be an exchange of places between Postmaster-General Robert J.
Wynne, of Pennsylvania, and H. Clay Evans, of Tennessee, United States Consul-General at London. This disposition of the notion that George B. Cortelyou, chairman of the Republican National Committee, is to take the postal affairs portfolio, for it is said that with this arrangement Mr. Cortelyou will succeed Leslie M. Shaw as Secretary of the Treasury. Mr. Shaw will retire to Iowa. Mr.
Cortelyou's wonderful financing of the Republican campaign has commended him very generally with the people who have large dealings with the Treasury Department.

H. Clay Evans, before he was Commissioner of Patents, preceding the incumbency of the Kansas post-laudate, Eugene Ware, who is soon to return to the scene of his early inspirations, was First Assistant Postmaster-General, having been appointed by President Harrison, and is presumed to be familiar with the affairs of the Postoffice Department. He has two very attractive daughters, who have been made much of in London high life, and it is expected they will greatly relish the change again to the most social round in Washington.

Prospect of Extra Session.

Among the Southern congressmen in the city to-day are Senators Culberson and Bailey, of Texas; Representative Livingston, of Georgia, and Representative Sims, of Tennessee. Neither of the senators would consent to talk about the result of the election. Mr. Livingston only said: "A thousand of brick fell upon us, but where on earth did it come from?"
Mr. Sims said he thought the policy of Southern members should be quiescent in the Fifty-ninth Congress until the safety and peace of social conditions in the South should be menaced by the Crumpacker or any other policy. Until then he was opposed to saying anything about the race question.

There is renewed talk to-day about the prospect of an extra session. Representative Babcock professes to believe it will come, and that its business will be to revise the tariff. Dazell, the high tariff leader, is combating the notion, saying that the country is satisfied and showed it by the election. Certain visitors to the White House report that the President listens attentively to all that is said for and against an extra session, and withholds any comment whatever. This is taken by the friends of tariff revision to mean that he intends to take his own counsel, and having no future political axes to grind, will join in the demand for some measure of reform of the tariff schedules.

A well known Democratic newspaper man, for many years a correspondent here, said to-day: "I believe Mr. Roosevelt is going to be master of his party during the remainder of his tenure of office, and that he will see to a revision of the tariff. Moreover, I believe that feeling keenly the and again an extra session, and without the South among people he is going to do something to win over the South before he quits office. He is going to visit the South; he is going to Georgia and to Texas. I do not believe he has any idea of permitting reduction of Southern representation while he is President."

On this point another view is that President Roosevelt regards the reduction notion as a sort of desertion of the black man in that it would virtually admit that the States had a right to curtail suffrage and eliminate the negro vote. The President was heard to say generally that to that effect when the Crumpacker scheme was mentioned to him.

In short, it is wonderful the number of conflicting opinions that daily are brought away from the White House by visitors and it is equally strange to note how deeply concerned they generally are in their respective notions as to what the President means to do on vital questions.

CHESTERFIELD COURT.

Grand Jury Adds Four Felony Cases to the Docket.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
CHESTERFIELD, VA., Nov. 15.—Judge Watson yesterday opened the November term of the Circuit Court here. A special grand jury of nine was ordered in the morning, and to the docket, already considerable, four criminal cases were added. Those indicted were Edward Davis, for housebreaking; Henry Harris, for assault upon Mr. John A. Turpin; Edward Clark, for stabbing Stephen Block, and Garfield Cheatham, for shooting Berta Owens, the four being all colored.

Judge Watson found it necessary to be away to-day, and the trial of William Booker (colored) for the murder of Eddie Patterson, which at the last term was fixed for trial to-day, was continued until Thursday, to which day the court adjourned yesterday afternoon. Many of the jurors summoned, not being advised of the change, took long drives to the courthouse today to no purpose.

The docket has been arranged for the court to last up to the last day of this month, and the time being inadequate for all the business, some of the common law cases will go over to the February term.

A suit of the Bluefield Coal and Coke Company vs. Charles B. Scott & Company, for $2,000, was filed to-day.
